“ Hey, Big Bro it's me (Peanut) again for like the 50th time lol, I was thinking to myself on how many people I could express my emotions too which isn't many, but I realized that you were one of them that I could, I thought of the time where we used to eat thanksgiving at Nana and Pop-Pop's house and how everyone was so connected at the time. But now that you're gone, everyone is connected but it just doesn't feel the same, I know I was very young so people wouldn't expect me to remember as much as I do but I definitely do remember those times. It's hard coming home from school, and not having very many people to express things that happen in my life or at school, but you know I got God which he's always willing to listen but like I always say I miss and think of you everyday and I hope Heaven is treating you well, and I hope all is well and I love you big bro and you're still thought of, (what I could say for myself), talk later.

“ Hey, Big bro it's me once again (Peanut), I still think about you big bro thinking how much fun you would have been, thinking how much you would probably keep our family bonds together, thinking about how you would have been as a person. Because you know, we didn't talk as often but I sat in class and wondered if you regret doing what you did although there was good intentions behind it, do you regret it? Do you still watch over us everyday? what would be some words of wisdom you would give me? Although I know we didn't speak as often I still am curious and curious about so much more although I won't get the chance to ask. But like I always say I hope all is well and I love you big bro and you're still thought of, (what I could say for myself), talk later.

“ Hey, Big bro it's me again (Peanut), although we didn't talk as often, I still reminisce over the good times we had. I think about the day you and Di-Yana walked through our door and how my heart lighted up when I saw you guys, I know you always stayed strong but sometimes it's still hard to stay strong while missing you, I know you always told me to also keep doing good in school. Which I try everyday but sometimes I only do what God allows and directs me to do. Anyways I love and still think of you big bro. I hope all is well up there in Heaven.
