“ Hey Pops, This is still unreal to me. But I know I have to wake up and continue facing reality of you passing away 😞, taking it a day at a time. Life is really starting to shift, everything is changing without you here. I love you pops and I wish we had a lot more time together, even though we actually did spend lots of time together since the day I was born, you’ve always been there for me. That’s why I was always there for you when needed to be. Rest In Paradise pops and one day we’ll reunite and be at peace 🙏

Ps I will continue to hold it down here on earth, watch over me & The Family
