“ I'm still a lil in shock at your passing on, man. It seems like we were just working together and arguing about the proper way to do the job just the other day. You leaving once again shows me how short and precious Life is and can be. And it reminds me to always give those you care about and love their flowers while they can smell them. I'm glad that in the end, we got to be friends and "almost partners in crime(insider)." I'm glad that I got a chance to see that behind all that cocky, loud mouth, hard headed, "ignant", and aggravating stuff, there was a good dude with a good heart. And I'm happier that I got a chance to tell you that even though you hated it. I pray that your journey is peaceful and well. And I pray that your family is strengthened and encouraged in this tough time. Rest on my brotha.
