“ My uncle Lee was a lot of fun. Whenever I needed or wanted a laugh all I had to do was think of him. He was more like the big brother I didn't have than an uncle. I remember when he came to Connecticut with us to live; I was not to fond of the idea, but his fun loving spirit quickly won me over. Although Uncle Lee was the fun uncle, he did not let me get away too much. Whenever I went too far he would do his best to straighten me out without bringing my father into it. He saved me from a few butt whoopings. Lol. Good bye Uncle Lee.

Lee was the coolest usher on the usher board at Immanuel Baptist Church back in the day. He would smile from the door to the pulpit ushering someone into the church. I believe he would have slapped you right in the church if you said that he was not looking really good. He took ushering really serious. Whenever I think of Immanuel I cannot help but think of Lee. Rest well!
